The St. Louis Candidate Captures the Big Judicial Prize.

All Efforts of the Opposition to Break His Forces Fail.

ness Without Delay-The City Delegates

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., August 16 .- Eight ballots were taken for Supreme Judge last night with-out material change in favor of any candidate, Barclay came out stronger than was expected, with Burgess close behind and Stratton and Dearmond well up towards the front. Barclay djournment after the eighth ballot had 188 back of him. The adjournment was carried with a whoop amid the greatest confusion and wrangling. It was 1 o'cleck before the tired and worn-out delegates got back to their hotels. They retired at once to their rooms, at least the majority of them did, some to sleep, others to canvass and work for their favorite candidate. The bar-rooms, which are required by law to close at 12 o'clock, were still open, and it was in the precincts of the mint jelup and seduc-tive cocktail that various opinions were aught. Who was to be benefited by the adjournment was speculated upon by every one. The prevailing belief was that Judge Barclay dosk until quiet was restored, and then he ruled that no county could change its vote during roll-call or until after the result was announced. This checked the stampede to Barclay, and the roll on the eleventh ballot was begun.

The ELEVENTH BALLOT.

The results of the cancus between the Stratton and Dearmond delegate became apparent as the roll-call went on. Changes of Stratton yotes to Dearmond came every few minutes, but the scheme falled to work in the Monroe County delegation. Barclay gained four votes there to Dearmond's three. Judge Gauntt, who is running the Dearmond end of the race, tried to raise enthusiasm at each change from Stratton in favor of his candidate, but it generally fell fait. St. Louis city stuck by Barclay and east her solid vote again for him. The result of the eleventh ballot was the following: Total number of votes, 468; necessary to a choice, 255:

Barclay, 218.

Bearmond, 94.

Stratton, 884.

The usual burs of excitement rose after the amouncement, and to the true of Dixle from the band the convention turned itself into district primaries, and some of the tallest bustling yet done was observed on the floor. Desperately the Dearmond men fought for their candidate, but the Barciay forces were too well in hand to break their solid front, but the other forces were wavering, and upon them effective work was done.

THE TWELTHE RALLOT.

It was conceded by some of Barclay's backers that if he did not gain upon the twelfth ballot he would be passed by and a break made for Dearmond. The roil-call was again commenced amid much confusion, and the Sefgeant at arms had to be called on to seat the wire-pullers in their respective delegations. Dearmond continued to gain from Stratton, but the Barclay and Burgess men stood firm. The bailot showed a loss of one vote for Barclay, and a gain of three for Dearmond. The result was:

Barclay, 112.

Bargess, 122.

Dearmond, 97.

Statton, 37.

The convention then settled down to an all-day lob.

Stratton, 2749.

Stratton, 2749.

The fourteenth bailot started off with a change in Barton County of three votes to Dearmond. Webster County changed one to Barclay. Other changes turned up the totals and the result was unchanged from the preceding ballot.

Barelay, 218.

Burgess, 121.

Stratton, 5749.

was lost in selecting a teandidate. R. L. Goode of Greene County will be the nominee. The Kansas City District Convention meets at the same hour at the Opera-House. There is no reason now to change the prediction already made of the nominations of Ellison, Smith and Gill. Charile Napton of St. Louis will call the St. Louis District Convention to order and Walter Young will be the temporary presiding officer of the Western District Convention. The subordinate officers will be those of the convention just adjourned. It is probable that the temporary officers will be hose of the convention. Goode, it is conceded, will be nominated before five ballots are taken. In the Western District the struggle will be prolonged probably until late in the night. The three places are to be filled singly. Ellison is sure. Smith and Gill are almost beyond the pale of doubt, but Rechow, Strother, Shanklin, McKerson and Boyd are fighting hard and any of them may win.

The cause of the unexpected turn of affairs

The cause of the unexpected turn of affairs is due directly to the lack of orders on the books of the North Chicago Co. Manager E.C. Potter said: "There is no particular reason for any excitement or alarm over the closing down of the mills. The suspension of work is but a temporary one, and affects but a part of the plant. The railroads are withholding their orders on account of the present state of politics. As our deliveries have been made it became necessary to shut down for the time being. We have some August deliveries to make and it is quite probable that we shall resume the latter part of this month. The blast furnaces will continue to operate as usual."

The Anti-Francis Men Charge the Mayor's Managers With Opposing Judge Barclay

They were sought out by more of the workings of the convention than city delegation astonished the convention by pected, on account of personal dislike, that Delegate Thos. E. Barclay. This report of the Mayor's hostility to the St. Louis candidate for the Supreme bench has been in circulation ever since the first primary election was field. Should Judge Barclay's friends accept the story as true and retailate at the meeting of the Jefferson City Convention on the 22d inst., it would precipitate a big fight in that convention. The actions of the St. Louisans gave new grounds for the story and brought the suspicions of the convention on the delegation.

Deputy Building Commissioner Renick is becoming a popular politician in the Twenty-second Ward. But deservedly so. Any man who is ready to feed the Democracy Any man who is ready to feed the Democracy of a ward with beer and sandwiches as Mr. Renick is doing deserves a place in the affections of his fellow Democrats. Commissioner Renick is a quiet little man, modest in manner and means and much surprised to find himself so prominent in the minds of his fellow-citizens. The circumstances leading up to this condition of things are as follows: After the primaries, when Mr. John Finn, the custodian of the fund subscribed in the Twenty-second Ward, thought he had defrayed all the expenses, he reported to his fellow-committeeman that there was an unappropriated balance in the treasury. Some one proposed that it be returned to the subscribers, but Committeeman Renick had a broader, more sociable and generous plan for disposing of it. He proposed to expend it for beer and sandwiches for the Democracy of the ward. Treasurer Finn acquiesced in the proposal and Committeeman Renick, understanding that he was looked to to make the arrangements, ordered the spread, but in the meantime the Treasurer found other and more legitimate calls for the supposed balance and expended it. Mr. Renick through these circumstance finds himself the host of the Democratic party of the Twenty-Second.

The Twenty-second Ward Democratic Club will hold its regular meeting to-morrow (Friday) evening at Garrison Hall, corner of Easton and Leonard avenues. The meeting will be an interesting one, for the reason that it will be addressed by Mayor David R. Francis and by Col. J. R. Claiborne, Congress man M. L. Clardy, Messrs. Chester Krum, Julius S. Waish and J. B. C. Lucas. This club brought out Chester Krum as a Democratic orator and will present to the Democracy of the city on this occasion another opportunity to hear this distinguished gentleman. Mayor Francis will be there, and will thank the Democrats of his ward for giving him the largest majority of any ward in the city at the late primary election. Mr. Congressman Clardy has promised to be present, and Col. Claiborne will again hold aloft his old slouch hat and shout for Democracy. To make the meeting pleasant in every respect refreshments will be furnished to those who may come. Democrats all over the city are invited to be present.

The local Republican managers, who four years ago were able to completely control 800 votes in an unjustifiable bolt, are becoming apprehensive. Several prominent colored men have shown a disposition to act independently of the bosses at the coming election. There are no places to put the kickers in under the Dem. no places to put the kickers in under the Dem-ceratic administration of municipal affairs and the situation is accordingly becoming alarming to the bosses, who are relying on some im-ported talent to square them with the dis-gruntled politicians. Some of the reputable colored men are taking a hand in the cam-paign and arranging for meetings. A mass-meeting of the colored clubs will be held to-morrow evening at 1120 Washington avenue, when addresses will be made by Gov. E. O. Stanard, Mr. M. G. Reynolds, Dr. Pres-torious, Rev. J. C. Six boys, ranging in age fr 10 to 16 years of age, were captured and art raigned before Judge Stilsing at the First District Court, Jersey City. About three months ago Edward and John McCullough, raigned before Judge Stilsing at the First District Court, Jersey City. About three months ago Edward and John McCuilough, Owen Dolan and Bartholomew Carey escaped from the Alms-house at Snake Hill. They were a pretty tough set of youngsters, and although Warden Ryan was very much troubled over the escape he felt relieved to a great extent. Several detectives were put upon the case, but the youngsters could not have made their disappearance more successfully had they been swallowed up in the earth. Since their disappearance a number of robberles have been committed at short intervals. Early yesterday morning Warden Ryan, while walking through the woods and over the rocks about Snake Hill, was very much amazed at hearing the sound of voices which seemed to come from the ground. He hurriedly made an investigation, and after hunting about for some time discovered an opening in the rocks which is known to the officials on the hill as the "Eagle's Nest" or "Eagle's Rock." He crawled through the hole, and there sitting in a group were the four boys who had escaped from school and two other youngsters. They attempted to escape but Hyan blocked the opening and held them all prisoners. He secured a large club and marched the youthful hermits in alone to the prison. They were locked up and later taken to court

The four boys who had escaped were first arraigned. Edward McCullough was the brightest one of the lot and did the talking. He said that after they had freed themselves they went at once to the cave, where they hid for four days. They had taken a lot of bread and water with them and did not get hungry. When their supply was exhausted they went out one by one in the middle of the night and walked to Kingsland. Three of them secured positions with farmers to mind cows. They got tired of their job, and with the little money they had made they came acquainted with the two new boys, whose names are John Juan, aged 15, and Joseph Jerold, aged 16. These boys said they stole things, and as they had no home they were invit

It is not generally known that when the Umbria broke down off Fire Island last Saturday afternoon, after a quick run across, the steamer La Bourgoyne was only a short distance in her wake, ploughing at a great rate, trying to beat the Cunarder to Quarantine. Capt. Franguel of the French steamer admits that he was pushing his steamer for all she was worth, and although he regretted the accident to the Umbria both his passengers and himself felt a little pardonable gratification when they passed the Cunarder and arrived at Quarantine far ahead of her. He is also employed in other States as hangman. This will be the last exocution he will undertake, as he intends to give up the business to his son. The latter has been a great help to his father, and the old man says with pride that the youth is as good as he is, if not better. Meanwhile, Danny Lyons has not the least idea that he is going to be hanged Tuesday next. He had once given up all hope, and had determined to die like a "good citizen" as he said, but his lawyers, Blake and Sullivan, awoke new hope in his breast. He is greatly pitied by the keepers, who say that he deserves elemency more than Chiara Cignarale, who was to have been hanged at the same time, but whose sentence was commuted to imprisonment for life.

While walking around in the Tombs yard for exercise Sunday last Danny found a horseshoe lying on the ground. He picked it up and hung it over his cell door. He thinks it will bring him good luck and that Justice Patterson will decide in his favor.

Justice Patterson wrote his decision yesterday, but it will not be given out until to-day. It is said, however, that it is against Lyons, and that the prisoner will be surely hanged on Tuesday next.

The application for a stay in the case of murderer Daniel Lyons has been denied by Justice Patterson.

"Have you anything new in store for the season?"

"Yas. Two operas that I think will be great successes. 'The Thirteen Club,' by Genee, and better than that, 'The King's Fool, which was composed by a man who is very little known in this country, but he will be heard of when this opera comes out. His name is Mueller, and he is the director of the Theater a. d. Wien is also the director of the Theater a. d. Wien is also the composar of the theater. Johann Strauss was the firstone, and all his operas were written and produced there. He was followed to make the dozen pictures, and then came Millocker, and Mueller has followed Millocker. 'The King's Fool' has been a great success in Vienna and Edrope, and I think it will be here. I intend to make it the effort of my life. It is a high comedy. There is no horse play in it, or gags, or any of those coarse comedy parts that are found in other light operas. It is real comedy and could be played with great success without music. The first act is the plot, the second a climax and the third still a climax. The music is charming and I think will become as popular here as any that is sung. It will not be brought out until after election though."

We do the best we can for the people he works for the sake of our own name, but it costs us a good deal."

"Did you ever discharge him?"

"Why, yes. When he came in here just after Christmas and wanted more pictures we told him not to take any more orders."

"How does he get hold of your order blanks?"

"When he started out we gave him fifty, but our blanks have been changed since then. But I think he has had some printed somewhere. I know he never had more than fifty, and I also know that he has sent us in more than fifty, yes, a good many more than fifty of these ridiculous orders. He tells people anything just to get the cents. He promises frames, and takes large pictures to copy for almost nothing, and I have had lots of trouble from people who come here to get pictures they have given this fellow to copy. I don't know what he has done with them unless he has destroyed them."

"Why can't the police find him?"

"Because he has about a dozen names, and no one knows where his residence is. He skips all about the city. One day he will be in North St. Louis and the next in Carondelst. I can tell that by the orders that come is. He has told about half the people he has worked that his orders were good at different products and the next in Carondelst. I can tell that by the orders that come is. He has told about the city. One day he will be nothing to do with that gallery."

"Do you intend to prosecute him?"

"Yes, if we can catch him, but there doesn't seem to be much chance of that."

From the number of orders Mr. Brockmeys! has on file it seems that "Wilson," "Brown" "Rohifing," "Rohifing," "Roch," or whoever this plot tographic ignis fatuus is, must have made considerable money out of his trade.

THE DOWNHILL BOAD.

If the Board of Police Commissioners of St. Louis, having a special interest in any election, should issue an order to the policemen to vote in a certain way the public indignation would hardly be conined to words.

If the Street Commissioner should march the street-sweeping brigade up to the polls and vote them, like cattle, at so much per head, it would create a demand for his impeachment and punishment.

Yet the scandal of such interference with a free and unbought election is just as outrageous when done by the Mayor and his subordinates. It is not less offenlive when done secretly than when done openly. The offense lies in the act itself, not in the openness with which it is perpetrated nor in the position of the official who abuses his office to corrupt and de grade the elections of the people.

No one who knows what he is talking about will attempt to deny the flagrant and notorious oppression and downright corruption which prevailed at the recent Democratic primaries. At nearly every poll officials and employes of the city could be seen drumming up the faithful, spotting the suspected, patrolling the precinct with the mien of picket guards, while the well-known heelers and fine workers dashed up or hurried out in the ary temperature in southeast portion; winds $10 carriages which were much thicker on the streets that day than sprinkling carts or street-cleaning carts.

All this is part and parcel of a general plan of political degradation and debasement against which political honesty and decency must fight without truce. At last Saturday's primaries another step was taken in the downhill road of political corruption. It does not extenuate the offense, that it was uncalled for, and that the primaries would have had the same result if the officials and committeemen and understrappers had kept their hands interview in which he was reported as off of the election and if the candidate had having said that CLEVELAND was making kept his hands in his pockets. Against such methods we protest to the voters of the city, and to the convention of the State. This naturalization of Chinese by the Republican authorities at Indianapolis was in open disregard of United States law and decisions of United States Courts, and it was, therefore, a sore subject for the Harrison Senators. VEST, however, magnanimously gave them the benefit of HAR-RISON'S recently published letter to a citizen of St. Louis, in which he explained how hard it had been for him "to let go Printers' Union and other labor unions in the idea that this was the free home of all spite of all the party managers can do to comers," and that the Chinese should be make it don a mask for campaign pur- as free to come as anybody else, without distinction of race or color.

Strange Gods and Strange Methods From the Kansas City Times In the charming poetic address presented t the "uncrowned king" by that master of English verse, Mr. Edward Fitzwilliam, we encounter the following remarkable line: "Strange gods are being worshiped, strange methods employed." Now it is patent to everybody that the only strange god who has risen during Mr. Blaine's absence is Gen Senjamin Harrison of Indians, who is no much of a god and is not being worshiped to any alarming extent. The "strange meth ods" clearly points to the whisky plank which was a repudiation of Mr. Blaine's expressed conditions. Altogether Mr. Fitz. ment a trifle awkward.

"Bince the hanging of Maxwell and Landgraf, '' said Gustavus A. Westermann of Ogon, Utah, to a Post-Disparch reporter at the Planters' House, "there has been a great deal of talk about that method of execution and I have heard a great many people and I have heard a great many people express their dislike to hanging, although they believe in capital punishment. The guillotine and electricity have been frequently suggested as substitutes, but never in my hearing one method which is practiced in Utah, the Indian Territory, and I believe sometimes in Arizona. I have met few who were aware that a very respectable proportion of those who annually meet their death in this country at the hands of the law, die by the bullet EXECUTIONS IN UTAH.

heavy irons and vigilant guards being all that prevented prisoners from escaping. The time of execution was set for 5:30, the place being an open plain just outside of town. I suppose that there were fully three hundred men present at that hour and also several women. Thompson was brought from the fail in a rough cart, guarded by the Steriff and a posse of eight men, who were to form the firing party. He wore handcuffs and leg-irons, and I was most unfavorably impressed with his stolid, brutal bearing. The Sheriff rode in the eart with him, a cocket revolvez in his hand, while the posse wiked at the side. Arriving at the ground little time was lost. Thompson was placed facing the rising sun, while the firing party was drawn up about ten paces off. I remember that the Sheriff had considerable trouble in clearing the spectators from the open space behind the prisoner, where they were in danger of being hit by stray bullets, and they closely surrounded the guards, who stood at one end of a lane of men with the prisoner at the other. The Sheriff asked him if he had anything to say, and on his replying in the negative, tied a broad linen band over his eyes. At this point Thompson made a rather remarkable request. Although his eyes were bandaged, he did not like the idea of facing the bullets, and asked to the executioners. This request was refused, for the reason that a vital part could not be struck so easily from behind as from before, whereupon Thompson said: "Hurry up, then," and visibly braced himself. The firing party had been carefully drilled. At a sign from the Sheriff six of the men, who were drawn up abreast, took careful aim, and when he clapped his hands the rifes wore discovered to the clapped his hands the rifes wore discovered to the clapped his hands the rifes wore discovered to the clapped his hands the rifes wore discovered to the clapped his hands the rifes wore discovered to the clapped his hands the rifes wore discovered to the clapped his hands the rifes wore discovered to the clapped his hand

"The man fell/backward with considerable force, as if he had been pushed from his feet, and, sithough I watched closely, I was unable to detect a movement after he struck the ground. Two of the men, the best shots, had been directed to aim at his head, and there were two holes in his forehead, while there was but one, much larger than either of the others, in the back of his head, the heavy 48-caliber Sharp's bulle ts having pursued very much the same course, and the twist of the conical balls had torn the two holes into one. Four bullets were through his breast, one penetrating the heart. A doctor felt his pulse, pronounced life extinct, and the corpse was covered with a blanket and taken off. The doctor told me that Thompson could not possibly have felt a pang, as the bullets had passed through his brain in less than the two-hundredth part of a second, and that no nerves could convey sensation so rapidly. His fall backward was occasioned solely by the shock of the lead. I was astonished to see so little blood. The shirt behind was saturated and the back of his head, but beyond a little blood on his shirt-treat, two thin streams from his forehead, and a trickle from the lips there was no sign of hemorrhage visible as he lay on the ground, and I have seen many men present a more gory appearance after receiving a blow on the nose.

Rev. Charles E. Brugler, formerly assistant rector of Christ's Church, is paster of the congregation, which has raised sufficient money to clear it from debt when ready for dedication, which will most likely be during the holiday season. Up to five years ago there was no immediate prospect that this grazing spot would command the attention that has been bestowed upon it for residence ecites, but with the wonderfully rapid development of the commercial interests of the city, old residence sections were Built up or enhanced in value at such a pane that home-seekers were induced at the westry room is to be had within the old imits, accessible to be had within the old imits, accessible to street car lines, at suitable figures, and parties being compelled to go further out, property was eagerly sought for in small lots and in horsely and arrangement for heating the entire innest frequent and rapid facilities for reson how has by the St. Louis Cable & Western Railway.

is about aix miles west, on the couth side of the road, the fare from there to Vandeventer avenue being 5 cents. The Wabash Railway avenue being 5 cents. The Wabash Railway runs along the western line of the place and has a station, Rosedale, at the southwestern corner of it; Delmar avenue is the southern boundary. Before there was any idea of platting it the property belonged to Jerre W. Clemens. Frank Obear bought it, and together with B. F. Gray, Jr., and Wm. F. Nelson, organized a syndicate composed of themselves, F. W. Paramore, L. E. Davidson, Wm. M. Bulkley, Chas. T. Hcuser, J. Lathrop and F. Aliemand, who paid about 550,000 for the field. These parties commenced selling the ground at from fix to 31s a foot and closed it all ontexcept 6,000 for feet, which they sold in a lump to C.F. Collins, at 510 a foot. Last May Mr. Obear conducted an auction of the lots for Mr. Collins and succeeded in disposing of 2,000 front feet at an average of 514.99 a foot. In the mean time the principal street, Cates avenue, was graded and macadamized with a top drassing of gravel, other streets levelled to the proper grade, sidewalks laid to the depote and frees planted.

The ploneer builder was Frank Obear, who has constructed a $6,000 house for himself, to attest the faith there is in him regarding the Outure of this new residence quarter.

His plan was designed by L. C. and Wm. M. Bulkiey on a modified order of the Queen Anne style of architecture. It is totally lacking in the "ginger-bread" arimming, but is mone the less pleasing to look upon. The dwelling occupies a Boxist-loot lot. Its entrance is through a large porch, which also serves as a porte cochere. Hard wood is used for interior finish, presenting several novel features. The exterior to the top of the first story is of pressed brick, and the second story and gables are of shingles.

In addition to the houses illustrated in this article F. W. Paramore has two good dwellings in Hamilton place. A. W. Davis owns a 8,500 home there, and C. F. Collins a house of about the same value nearing completion.

Other improvements to follow shortly in the same locality are a residence for W. Hegsembourg on Clemens avenue, one for Silas B. Wright, and another for T. B. Bergiar on the same street. These houses it is estimated will costs $1,500 each. Next spring, if not sconer, A. W. Stewart and E. B. Page expect to commonce building on Cates avenue.

Insignificant in the strength of the same will be an eighborn acre tract that has been keeping pace with its neighborn in the march of improvements. It was a part of the Clemens estate, of which it is said there is

Residence of B. F. Gray, Jr.

Residence of B. P. Gray, Jr.

It covers an area of 40x47 feet on a lot fronting 100 by a depth of 185 feet. W. A. Swasey designed the house with nine rooms. A feature of the interior is a large reception hall with an artistic stairway. Connecting with it by means of screened openings in place of sliding doors is the parior and library, all the interior finish being of hard woods. The outside walls are covered with lignum vitw shingles, which will not be painted.

Adjoining Mr. Gray's house there is Gary Spencer's $6,500 home place, occupying 100x 185 feet of ground. Dr. William Riley has plans ready to commence $3,500 residence, and Albert G. Fish is building a home on the south line of Vonversen avenue, a block south of Mr. Gray's place. W. B. Chittenden of Aber & Co. lately paid $5,800 for Mr. Dickson's home, a two-story Queen Anne house of seven rooms. W. P. Nelson built, two houses there, the cholee of which, a $5,000 improvement, has the advantage of 100x185 feet of ground. This is his home place. Near by is the $5,000 home of L. M. Hall, which Mr. Nelson built, and on Cates avenue, near Hamilton, is the $4,500 residence and 100x187-foot grounds of J. F. Albert.

HORRIBLE SUFFERING. The Sad Death of a Hydrophobia Victim

By Telegraph to the Post-Disparci.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., August 16.—Samue Wisham, a bright lad of 13 years who lived with his parents at 116 West street, Camden, died of hydrophobia yesterday morning after terrible suffering. The boy was bitten on June 1 by a black mongrel owned by Calvin W. Steelman, who snapped at him while running past, panting and frothing at the mouth. Two Steelman, who snapped at him while running past, panting and frothing at the mouth. Two wounds were dressed by A. P. Brown, the druggist, and afterwards cauterized by Dr. Benjamin, healing quickly. The boy's father, after hearing that his son was bitten, hunted up the dog and killed it in front of the homopathic hospital where the animal was lying. The poor lad did not develop any signs of hydrophobia until Sunday, when he returned from the First Baptist Sunday, school, of which he was a member. Then he complained of feeling sore all over. After that he remained indoors until Tuesday morning, growing worse all the time, when Dr. Smith was called in, and he immediately diagnosed the case as hydrophobia. Up to that time William had no convulsions, but there was already a partial paralysis of the throat, causing great difficulty in swallowing. The convulsions began early last evening, and the scene until death ensued was terrible. The little fellow frothed at the mouth, snapped and spat at his mother and the others who were attending him, and finally he had to be strapped down. It took two strong men to hold him. All the while he seemed to be in the greatest terror, incessantly talking about the black dog that bit him and crying out in the most piteous manner to be saved.

Meanwhile a bloody foam began exuding from his mouth and nostrils. The spasms lasted until 11 o'clock, when a hypodermic injection eased his suffering, death finally resulting at a few minutes past 3. There is no doubt in Camden that this was a true case of rables. Drs. Smith Woodward and Mosslander of the Homeopathic Hospital staff, who attended the boy, say it was hydrophobia.

pathic Hospital staff, who attended the boy, say it was hydrophobia.

William C. Lee, a young man employed as freman at the City Hail, Camden, was bitten yesterday morning by another dog, supposed to be mad, and a ruthless war against worthless cannies has been started in Camden. Mayor Pratt started the crusade by appointing Henry Breckett dog catcher, with instructions to gather in every dog found unmuzzled in the street, and unless redeemed, to kill him.

The Dinner at Which Austin Corbin En tertained Distinguished Gentlemen.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch. New York, August 16.—Austin Corbin, President of the Long Island Railroad, entertained Besides himself there were present Levi P. Morton, Thos. C. Platt, Chas. A. Rogers Maxwell, Vice-President of the Long Island road. The dinner was a strictly private one, and so far as known no political significance could be attached to it. There were no toasts or speeches, and according to Mr. Fassett, politics were not seriously discussed. After the dinner, which occupied about two hours, Mr. Corbin escorted his guests to the Pan enclosure to view the cupied about two hours, Mr. Corbin escorted his guests to the Pain enclosure, to view the display or fireworks, and when the exhibition terminated, he guided the party to the Manhattan Beach Nulsic Hall, where seats had been reserved. Mr. Morton was recognized by friends in the crowded amphitheater and the selection being played was interrupted by a burst of applause. Patrick Sarsfield Gilmore, ever ready in an emergency, at a giance grasped the situation. After bestowing a characteristic smile of recognition upon the distinguished guest, he again faced his musicians, made a graceful sweep with his baton, and the stirring strains of "Hall Columbia," a patriotic air not on the programme, floated out on the night air. After the concert Mr. Corbin and his guests walked back to the Oriental and retired for the night.

Yesterday $25 not divulge it to any one, not even to the st. L fighters or their backers, until after a start Royal Royal had been made. A visit to Coney Island yes-terday revealed the fact that La Blanche is at present in better condition than ever before. been as well when he met Dempsey at Larchmont he would have made a greater battle with the "Nonparell". At 5 o'clock he started out on a ton-mile run and shortly after 6 he returned, having run nine and one-half miles in one hour and twelve minutes. Then he had a rub down and a bath and, after the latter a short nap. Then he had another rub down and supper followed. This meal consisted of chops, some boiled potatoes and a glass of iced tea and was followed by a short walk. At 9 o'clock "The Marine" retired for the night. Before going to sleep and while still in bed he was rubbed down again, and then he fell into an easy slumber. Varley, the English puglilist, has for weeks trained in and near Newark, making his headquarters at Joe Wooley's place on Market street. Joe Wooley is an old-time English trainer, who knows as much about taking care of a man as any trainer in the land. While he has had the British middle-weight under his care he has fed him on beef and mutton to such an extent that Jack now scorns such delicacles as chicken and squab.

NEW YORK, August 16 .- That there will be a sculling match for the championship between John Teemer, the present holder of the title, and William O'Connor of Toronto, is now an assured fact. Yesterday morning Teemer received a telegram from his backer, Jim Keenan, ordering him to begin training at once. It had been Teemer's intention to remain here until Sunday, but he went immediately to the training quarters. Yesterday morning Albert Hamm and Teemer rowed a Whitehall boat from the Metropolitan Club boat-house, on the Harlem River, to Bowery Bay, where Charley Courtney has been training the Varuna Boat Club's crew for Saturday's regatta. assured fact. They stipulate the race shall be for $1,000, the championship of America and the as referee and, in the event of his not being acceptable, E. B. From the New York Tribune 2-year-olds at three-quarters of a mile. Then comes the inevitable selling race, followed by comes the inevitable selling race, followed by the worst of nuisances, a steeplechase. But the swindles over the jumps will be driven from the decent tracks next year, and the steeplechase gang will have to try other schemes for picking the public's pockets. Many of the owners will find bunco-steering an easy, light, agreeable and congenial occupation for their tastes. Many of the trainers will go back to the three-card monte for a livelihood, while many of the jockeys will exercise their talents in artistic exploits in sneak-thievery of overcoats and umbreilas from unguarded front halls. Well, the public can wait calmly until the thieves get their deserts in State's prison. They will never get them on a race course.

There's one honest man in the land, and he can be found without a lantern. With the bases full in the first inning of last Tuesday's Philadelphia—Chicago game, Burns hit in front of the plate. The ball struck him, though Lynch didn't see it, and it bounded into the field. No one made an effort to get it and Van Haltren scored, Burns running to first. Irwin protested that the ball was dead. Umpire Lynch then called Burns and asked him on his honor whether the ball struck him and Burns frankly said it did. Association.

Some one made the statement to Anson that he had a man who could beat Sunday. "Bet you $50 you have not," said the big captain. "Done," said the other party. They put up the money, but before the race Sunday came around and said to Anson: "Say, Captain, I can't beat that man. Why, that is Kittleman." "Run him, sir, run him; he may fail down."
